READY FOR MAY FETE

THE QUEEN TO BE CROWNED TOMORROW AFTERNOON.

PROGRAM IS ARRANGED

Festivities Begin at 4:30 p. m.—Bleachers to Be Moved to Front of College.

"Thus came the lovely spring with a rush of blossoms and music, Flooding the earth with flowers and the air with melodies vernal."

—Longfellow

Thus is the spirit of the day expressed.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock will see the processional of the Queen of the May to her coronation, behind daintily dressed flower girls who will pave the way to the throne with flowers.

Then the annual festival of the spring quarter at the State Teachers College will be underway.

More than five hundred students of the Maryville schools, including the ward schools, the College training school and demonstration school, and the State Teachers College, will take part in this most gorgeous and pretentious May Fete ever attempted at the College.

A Varied Program.

During the hour's entertainment a varied program will be presented. There will be dances, songs, chorus singing, band and orchestra music, flourishes, graceful maneuvers, tableaux, and practically everything suitable to a May day fiesta. The participants will be adorned with gayly tinted costumes.

The winding of the May pole and the recessional of the queen and attendants will close the event while combined orchestra and band, under the direction of H. O. Hickernell, will play the final strains of the music.

Program Arranged.

The program as announced today:

Fanfare, orchestra.

May Greetings, College chorus, "Welcome, Sweet Springtime," Rubinstein.

Recessional.

The football bleachers will be moved to the front of the building, inside of the hedges, and it is thought that everyone can be accommodated. Those coming in cars are asked to bring them to the front of the building, but they will be unable to see from them.

The band and orchestra will be combined into one big unit, it is planned. The College chorus, under the direction of Charles R. Gardner, will help with several numbers.

Bondsmen Profit in Kansas City Raids

Kansas City, Mo., May 22.—Wholesale police raids here the past week have been a boon to professional bondsmen, according to Police Chief L. R. Toyne. More than $74,000 has been posted at police headquarters for the release of those caught in the police offensive against vice.

Home From Visit.

Mrs. Lee DeVore returned from Kansas City last night where she had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. C. Carnagey, Mr. Carnagey and family.

Will Organize 4-H Club Work at Graham

All Young People Who Are Interested Are Asked to Meet May 31.—State Leader Here.

All young people who have done 4-H club work or who are interested in the work are asked to meet at the rest-room at Graham at 1:30 o'clock, May 31, it was announced by J. Ross Fleetwood, county agent, today.

Local leaders for the community met with Miss Jane Hinote, of the University of Missouri extension department, at Graham yesterday to formulate plans for the club activities.

Miss Hinote is meeting club leaders at Ravenwood today and will be in Maryville, tomorrow.

FACULTIES TO GATHER HERE

INSTRUCTORS OF OTHER TEACHERS COLLEGES COMING.

WILL ARRIVE FRIDAY

Local Educators to Be Hosts at Conference to Continue Through Saturday.

Faculty members of the five Missouri state teachers colleges will be the guests of the State Teachers College faculty here Friday and Saturday for the purpose of perfecting an inter-faculty organization leading to betterment of the teaching systems in the various schools.

Acceptances of invitations sent out from the school here indicate that most of the faculty members of the sister institutions at Kirksville, Warrensburg, Springfield and Cape Girardeau will attend.

The vanguard of the educators will arrive Friday, and will dine that evening at Residence Hall with the faculty members of the College here. During the afternoon an informal get-together of all the visitors and hosts will take place. At night it has been planned to have the entire number attend the senior music recital of Vernon J. Barrett, tenor.

Saturday will be the busy day of the meeting. In the morning an opportunity will be given to all of the visitors to visit the various departments in which they are interested. Department heads and other faculty members in their departments will be able to discuss problems bearing particularly upon their work.

In the afternoon, after mid-day luncheon and a short program, there will be a general meeting of all the representatives for the purpose of organizing and taking up other problems for discussion, such as a date for an annual meeting of the faculty members and a program of pertinent questions, including those pertaining to State Teachers College curricula, will be taken up.

Saturday evening will be given over entirely to entertainment. First dinner will be served at the Maryville Country Club and then the visitors will be taken to the College senior play, Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," at the College auditorium, as guests of the faculty here.

Roy A. Kinnaird, head of the department of biological sciences, is chairman of the local faculty council.

Former Parnell Man Dies Unexpectedly

George Rauch, Athelstan, Ia., May Have Committed Suicide or Died of Heart Failure.

George Rauch, a former resident of Parnell, now living at Athelstan, Ia., died suddenly today. Early rumors were that he had committed suicide, but later indications were that he might have died of heart failure.

Mr. Rauch was 55 years old. Until three years ago he lived on his farm near Parnell.

A daughter, Mrs. Vea Arnold, lives at Parnell and is the only surviving relative living in this county. Besides Mrs. Arnold, Mr. Rauch is survived by three other daughters and two sons.

No funeral arrangements have been made.

To Graduate From Deaconess School

Miss Neva Mildred Carden of Skidmore will be graduated tonight from the Kansas City National Training school of the Methdist Episcopal church for deaconesses and missioners. The commencement will be at the Grand avenue temple and Bishop William Frazer McDowell, D. D., Washington, D. C., will be the principal speaker.

Irvan Alkire Better.

Irvan Alkire, formerly of Maryville and Barnard, but now of Omaha, who was operated on Saturday, is now out of danger, according to information received here today by Mrs. Lloyd Heifner. She received word from her mother, Mrs. L. B. Campbell, sister of Mr. Alkire, and Mr. Campbell, who went to Omaha Sunday morning.

Fred Larmer, Near Ravenwood, Is Dead

Brother of Robert Larmer, Maryville, Dies at 1 o'Clock This Afternoon.

Fred Larmer died at 1 o'clock this afternoon at his home near Ravenwood following about five years of poor health from rheumatism. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Mr. Larmer was about 52 years old. He was born in Virginia but was reared from boyhood to manhood in the community of Ravenwood. He lived in South Dakota for six years and while in that state was married.

Besides his widow he is survived by three sons, Lee, Boyd, and Junior Larmer, all at home; two sisters, Mrs. William Wygal, Columbus, N. D., Mrs. George Walker, Ravenwood; four brothers, Robert Larmer, Maryville; Vance Larmer, Valentine, Neb., Eugene Larmer, Mount Moriah, Mo., and Olen Larmer, Highland, S. D.

Greek Cabinet Out; Venizelos Is Back

Former Leader, Emerging From Retirement, May Become President.—Wide Ramifications.

Athens, May 22.—The sudden return to active politics of Eleutherios Venizelos, behind-the-scenes leader of Greek politics since the world war was followed today by resignation of the cabinet.

Venizelos himself is expected to form the new cabinet, and before many weeks to become president of the Republic. His re-entry into politics was announced definitely only during the week end. He had been in semi-retirement for years, and had held no active office.

For the time being, Venizelos is expected to assume the prime ministry. Early dissolution of the cabinet with a general parliamentary election at the end of July, is indicated.

It is believed that Venizelos, as premier, will open the immediate release of General Theodore Pangalos, former dictator, whom the government has held prisoner in a fortress, and who has been on trial for alleged irregularities in office.

The present crisis is said to have wide ramifications in Balkan politics.

LINDY'S HOP IS POSTPONED

TRIP TO STOCKHOLM DELAYED INDEFINITELY.

GOOD WEATHER PAST

Chance for Race Between Flying Ace and Hassell Eliminated—His Plane in Air Tour.

Detroit, Mich., May 22.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's proposed flight across the Atlantic ocean by the way of Greenland has been postponed definitely until fall, the United Press learned today.

Lindbergh was understood to have felt that the most favorable flying weather for the trip was in May, June and October, and that since a landing field could not be prepared in Greenland before early in July, the trip should be postponed until fall. It was said he still planned using a tri-motored Ford airplane.

Prof. William H. Hobbs of the University of Michigan, who will prepare the field in Greenland, will leave Ann Arbor, Mich., tomorrow for New York and will sail Saturday for Copenhagen.

Until the announcement, there had appeared the possibility of an air race between Lindbergh and Bert Hassel, Rockford, Ill., aviator, for the honor of first reaching Stockholm.

Hassell last week obtained a Stinson monoplane, similar to the one used by Schlee and Brock in their round-the-world endeavor and planned to take the northern route across the Atlantic to Stockholm.

Hassell will start from Rockford about July 15, it was understood here.

Meanwhile, word reached here today from St. Louis that Lindbergh's new Ryan monoplane will be entered officially in the national air tour, which starts June 30, and will go to the west coast.

Philip Love, Lindbergh's former flying companion, will pilot the plane.

Aprove Applicants for College Degrees

Board of Regents, Meeting This Afternoon, Employs Additional Teachers for Summer Term.

The board of regents of the State Teachers College met this afternoon at the home of President Uel W. Lamkin and approved the list of applicants for degrees and certificates as had been certified by the faculty council. There were some changes made in the list approved by the council as published recently.

No action had been taken at 3 o'clock this afternoon on the bids for contract to make improvements at the power plant at the College. Additional teachers for the faculty during the summer term were employed but the names were not available before press time.

OHIO BATTLE COST $111,418

$55,259 SPENT FOR HOOVER, $56,159 BY OPPOSITION.

LEADS OTHER STATES

Senate Committee to Go There, Also to Indiana.—Pomerene, Democrat, Testifies.

Washington, May 22.—Oscar Foellinger, Hoover manager in Indiana, charged before the Senate campaign investigating committee today that Senator Watson's "native son" leaders had spent twice as much in the Indiana campaign as the $32,671 they reported.

The leatest figures of witnesses showed the total pro-Hoover national expenditures as $294,448.67, with some localities yet unreported. The pro-Smith total so far disclosed is $106,382.

The total of Republican expenditures thus far is $402,586 and Democrats $140,668.

Clarence Buck, campaign manager for Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois, testified he had raised $65,950 and spent $58,552.90. Lowden himself contributed $12,500, Buck said.

Ohio Figures Given.

Washington, May 22.—The Republican primary battle in Ohio cost about $111,418, the Senate campaign investigating committee learned today.

The Willis, or anti-Hoover, expenses were placed at about $56,159 by Carmi Thompson, Willis' campaign manager.

Secretary Hoover's campaign was previously estimated to have cost $55,259.

The Ohio figure represented the largest state expenditure yet recorded with the committee. Campaign expenditures so far revealed to the committee have been $355,171 by the Republicans and $140,668 by the Democrats, including expenses of about $247,033 for the Hoover forces and about $140,668 for the Smith forces.

To Visit Two States.

Chairman Steiwer announced the committee will go to Indiana and Ohio, and possibly West Virginia, next week to call scores of witnesses connected with the primary campaigns in those states. The committee desires to develop all the evidence about those primaries before the Kansas City convention, he said.

Oscar Foellinger, Indiana manager for Hoover, testified he received $53,706 and spent $49,722.17 in his state campaign.

Senator Watson's officials have testified they received $33,856 and spent $32,671.

Foellinger named the following largest contributors:

Mark L. Requa, San Francisco, $5,000; Will Irwin, Columbus, Ind., $1,500; F. K. Heath, on behalf of the California (correct) Hoover-for-President club, $5,000; Foellinger, $5,000; Harry Chandler, Los Angeles publisher, $5,000; James P. Goodrich, Indianapolis, $2,500; M. L. Requd, collections, $5,000; Vernon F. Taylor, Los Angeles, $1,000; Edgar Rickard, New York City, $2,000; H. B. Bole, Chicago, $2,000; George Woodruff, Chicago, $2,500; W. E. Tagney, Chicago, $1,500; H. M. Donovan, Chicago, $1,500.

$14,993 to Newspapers.

Newspaper advertising cost $14,993, Foellinger said. Watson managers had estimated it cost over $100,000. The only other large item of expenses was $19,723.83, for "organizing and speeches."

Foellinger said he did not know from whom Requa collected the second $5,000 contribution except that Requa said he he obtained it from his friends. The committee then adjourned until 2 p. m.

Costs Pomerene Only $1.00.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene told the Senate committee that his Democratic native son candidacy in Ohio had cost him personally $100. He knew of no other expenditures.

Chesley W. Jurney, secretary of Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, testified he had raised and spent $2,077.15, almost entirely in Texas, for furtherance of Governor Al Smith's campaign.

Copeland gave $500 to the fund and Jurney contributed the remainder, he said.

"You compliment me," Pomerene said, when Chairman Steiwer told him the committee had called him as a presidential candidate.

Smith Cost to $106,382.

Jurney said his Texas trip from Sept. 6, 1927, to Nov. 20, 1927, cost $1,280. He said he was a voter at Waco, Texas, and held poll tax No. 1 there.

The remainder of his fund was spent circulating pro-Smith pamphlets, mostly in Texas.

Tonsil Operation.

Miss Fern Arnold of Grant City had her tonsils removed this morning at the St. Francis Hospital.

Mrs. B. C. Hall and daughter spent yesterday in St. Joseph.

Fourth Republican Candidate in Race

Roscoe C. Patterson Files for Senate.—Others Are Page, Proctor and Atkeson.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 22.—Roscoe C. Patterson, United States district attorney, Kansas City, today filed his declaration for the Republican nomination for United States Senator.

He is the fourth to file for the office. The others are O. J. Page of Springfield, David M. Proctor of Kansas City, and W. O. Atkeson of Butler.

Patterson is a native of Springfield and lived in that city up to the time of his appointment as United States attorney for the western district of Missouri. He is 51 years old.

EXECUTION OF KILLER ASKED

U. S. DEMANDS ATONEMENT FOR SLAYING OF MISSIONARY.

MAY EVACUATE CHINA

All In Readiness for Americans to Leave Northern Country—Scene of Fighting May Change.

Washington, May 22.—Arrest and execution of the murderer of Dr. Walter F. Seymour, American missionary who was killed by a Chinese soldier in Tsining on April 16, was demanded in a note sent to Hwang Fu, Nationalist foreign minister, on May 15, the State Department announced today. The note was delivered to the Shanghai bureau of foreign affairs by Consul-General Cunningham for transmission to Hawang Fu.

Describing the shooting, the note said the evidence "unmistakably shows that on April 16, several Nationalist soldiers seized Dr. Seymour on the street outside of the mission compound." He broke from their grasps, and entering the compound, barred the gates, whereupon the soldiers fired through the gates, one bullet passing through Dr. Seymour's heart.

"The soldiers then opened the gate, robbed his body and departed. Dr. Seymour died ten minutes thereafter," the note said.

To Evacuate if Necessary.

Evacuation of all Americans from North China has been decided upon by the U. S. Government in case of an extreme emergency in the increasingly menacing military situation there, it was authoritatively stated here today.

Plans already completed call for withdrawal not only of civilians but of American armed forces as well. The first step would be to remove the legation and all civilians to Tientsin, this to be followed by withdrawal of American troops to the same city.

The Asiatic fleet is concentrating near Chefoo within easy sailing distance of Tientsin and would be called upon if needed to remove Americans from this city.

Hope was expressed at the state department that this extreme step would not be necessary. But it was said the United States does not want to see the Boxer incident, of 1900 repeated and, if need arises, will withdraw to avoid a repetition.

There was also some apprehension over possibility of American troops becoming involved with those of other powers in a military movement of an aggressive nature. But the United States, it was emphatically stated, will have nothing to do with any plans to interfere with Chinese military movements, although all reasonable measures will be taken to protect Ameri-

Nicaraguan Rebels Lose in Two Fights

United States Marine Patrols Inflict Severe Casualties.—No Americans Wounded.

Mangua, Nicaragua, May 22.—Two Nicaraguan rebel groups have been defeated by United States Marine patrols in the past few days. The rebel casualties were considerable, advices here said today.

One of the rebel leaders was killed.

Advices received at the marine base here said that none of the marines had been wounded in the two engagements.

The first of the two recent engagements was May 12. The marine command headed by Lieutenant John Walraven met and defeated a large group of rebels near Barillal.

The leader of the rebel band was killed and several other rebels were wounded.

Sunday a patrol commanded by Lieutenant Howard Kenyon dispersed a band of 30 rebels near Estelie. Several of the rebels were wounded.

Both engagements were reported to have been brief but the fighting was said to have been vigorous.

Lieutenant Christian F. Schilt, marine aviator, has started for the United States to receive a congressional medal of honor for his work in removing wounded marines from Quilali in January.

ONE OUT OF MINE ALIVE

ONE OF ENTOMBED MEN RESCUED AFTER 55 HOURS.

KNOWN DEAD UP TO 92

104 Others Still Missing as Relief Continues at Pennsylvania Shaft.

Mather, Pa., May 22.—Bodies brought up the shaft of the Mather mine at 3 p. m. today boosted the known death list of Saturday's explosion to 92.

Many more bodies are at the foot of the shaft ready to be lifted to the surface, rescue workers said.

One hundred and four men are still missing.

The situation around the mine of the Mather Collieries Company had settled into one of dreary routine.

Hearses and ambulances rolled swiftly back and forth. Hammers drummed in a hollow chorus upon the boards of rough boxes.

Mather, Pa., May 22.—Frank Bucsha, one of the 210 miners entombed when an explosion wrecked the Mather coal mine Saturday, was rescued alive today, after fifty-five hours of imprisonment.

The news of Bucsha's rescue spread rapidly throughout the little mining village and new hope was born that more of the 124 miners still missing will be found alive.

The death toll stood at sixty-seven and the survivors at thirteen when Bucsha was rescued by Bruce Veal. The bodies of five more victims were taken from the mine a few hours after Bucsha's rescue.

Perched upon a rail, waiting for death or rescue, Bucsha was found one and a half miles from the shaft entrance and more than 300 feet underground. He was in butt 22.

Greets His Rescuer.

"Bruce, where you been?" Bucsha inquired as Veal entered the compartment. "I been here three days now. You not come so something choke me."

Bucsha was carried to the mine shaft and lifted to the surface. He was able to step from the stretcher to the cot.

The discovery of Bucsha was described in a dramatic manner by Veal, who wanted to return to the underground workings immediately, for he was sure "more men are alive in the mine."

Bucsha was in a small dark hole between two trap dors. His contentment to remain in one position had saved his life.

"I heard the explosion and started to run when someone pushed me back," Bucsha said. "I could detect gas coming upon and I went back to the little hole where I had been working. There I remained, for gas had failed to enter and I knew I was safe."

Companion to Death.

Bucsha said another man whose name he did not know stayed a long time with him in the little dark pit, but became restless and started to grope his way out. The rescuers said they passed the body of Bucsha's friend only a short distance from butt 22. He evidently had fallen a victim of the deadly gas that followed the explosion.

Three or four other bodies were seen by the rescuers.

"I had a rescue team of six men," Veal said. "I was not using a gas mask but I had sent the other men on ahead with the canary bird to test the air.

"There was fresh air where we found Bucsha in a low spot in the mine. Although he had not barricaded

Fares on Kansas City Bus Lines to Go Up

Kansas City, Mo., May 22.—Kansas City bus patrons soon will be paying a 15 cent fare on five trunk lines here.

The City Council passed an ordinance increasing the fare from ten cents on these lines. Seven "feeder" lines still will charge 10 cents. The new schedule is effective June 1, until December 1.

"Choose Curtis" Is Slogan for Kansan

Topeka, Kans., May 22.—A new slogan for Senator Charles Curtis is being displayed at his headquarters here, and it may be taken to the Republican national convention in Kansas City, his friends say. It is:

"Curtis Chooses—Choose Curtis."

THE BIG RADICAL.

"Big Bill" Haywood came to public attention again by dying. Only so could he still attract interest.

Haywood was regarded, for many years, as a big and very dangerous radical. Millions feared his I. W. W., as a real menace to America.

Arrested and sentenced for opposing the war, he jumped bail and fled to Russia. There the foremost American radical became a nonentity. There were so many other radicals there like him or worse, that he was inconspicuous. Russian leaders looked him over curiously, and went about their business.

He pined for America, and ordered that his ashes be sent here. Peace to them!

If there is any real importance in his passing, it is the incidental reminder of how little real radicalism there is in America. Organized labor repudiated him. His I. W. W. never cut much figure. His Communism, terrible as it seemed, was mild compared with foreign brands, and attracted comparatively little following here.

As a radical, Haywood was a failure. As a demonstrator that America will not tolerate Socialism or Communism, he was useful.

France, calling for a new 5 per cent loan of $400,000,000, is overwhelmed with subscriptions. Money, money everywhere. Nothing easier nowadays than borrowing money—except when you want a loan yourself.

What Other Editors Say

Listeners Come First.

It is vital that the federal radio commission, in approaching its power allocation problem view that problem in a way that will give primary consideration to the listening public, the public that has spent millions in radio receiving sets. It is most important that the cart be not put before the horse. The listener comes first, and the welfare of the broadcasting should be the secondary consideration.

The capacity of the air to receive and transmit radio programs is limited, therefore the number of stations that can be accommodated without creating chaos must be limited.

The radio commission should see that the number of stations is restricted in such a way as to make possible the continuance of programs on at least as high a plane as those now being presented, leaving the way open for a progressive improvement.

Having fixed the limit then a free, full competition among broadcasters should be allowed, and those best able at the business of broadcasting and program management will be the ones who are entitled to receive the rewards of their commercial undertakings.—New York Telegram.

The Campaign Log

MAY 22

By United Press

James W. Good, Chicago attorney, has been placed in charge of the National Hoover-for-President campaign. He has been active in the Hoover campaign in the east.

Three separate attacks were made on Secretary of Commerce Hoover in the Senate. Senator James A. Reed attacked Hoover's war time grain control record; Senator Cole Blease commented on Hoover's permitting negroes and whites to work together in government departments and Senator Peter Norbeck introduced a newspaper editorial which condemned Hoover's attitude towards agriculture.

The Senate campaign investigation committee heard evidence concerning the Lowden national campaign and the Hoover campaign in Indiana.

Texas Democrats met at Beaumont three different factions appearing. One group sought a dry uninstructed delegation, another an anti-smith delegation and still another group desired a pro-Smith delegation.

The Texas state Republican convention met in Dallas with forces of National Committeeman R. B. Creager seeking a delegation instructed for Herbert Hoover.

Harp Will Replace King on Irish Coins

Dublin, May 22.—The ancient Irish Harp will replace the profile of the King on the new coinage of the Irish Free State. The principal features of the industrial and sporting life of the country and its cultural development are represented. But St. Patrick, the national apostle, has not been remembered in designing the new coinage of the realm.

A horse, a bull, and a hen with a brood represent agriculture. A salmon and a woodchuck represent sport. A round tower and a wolf-hound symbolize the ancient dignity of Ireland. New currency notes and coins will not be in circulation for a few months yet.

Mrs. Frank Miller of Wilcox is in St. Joseph receiving treatment at the Mercy hospital. She went there Sunday.

Hope for Utah Dam With Leaks Plugged

Salt Lake City, Utah, May 22.—Thousands of sacks of sand, cement, and other materials have been used to plug the leak in the Pleasant Valley Dam and that structure probably will not collapse now, George M. Bacon, state engineer, advised railroad authorities here today after an examination of the reservoir.

Fight Over Bishop's Term at Conference

Two Reports Submitted by Methodist Committees at Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., May 22.—The controversy over the proposal to elect bishops for a limited term burst out on the floor of the Methodist Episcopal conference here today when the committee on judiciary, to which the question of the constitutionality of the proposed change was referred, submitted a majority report ruling against the limited elective term.

The majority report was signed by twelve of the twenty-five members of the judiciary committee. A minority report signed by ten members and declaring the limited elective term for bishops was constitutional, also was submitted.

Others Show Signs of Radium Poisoning

Three Companions Develop Pains as Five Women Speed Suit Against Radium Corporation.

Orange, N. J., May 22.—Just as the five young women who are said to be dying of radium poisoning prepared to go into court today in an effort to speed their suit against the United States radium corporation, it became known that three of their fellow workers have shown symptoms of the fatal malady.

The three latest victims of the disease are said to have developed rheumatic pains in their joints. That indicates that the alpha rays of the radium have begun to impair their bones.

Twenty-two persons have contracted the malady after pointing paint brushes with their mouths while painting luminous watch dials. Fourteen are dead and five are critically ill

House Overrides the Veto on Two Bills

Coolidge Disapproval Fails for Second and Third Times.—Both Postal Measures.

Washington, May 22.—The House today passed two bills over President Coolidge's veto constituting the second and third times it has overridden the chief executive since he has been in the White House.

Both were postal bills. One, passed 319 to 45, would increase allowances to fourth class postmasters for rental, fuel and light, which the President said would cost $2,865,000 annually. The other measure would increase pay for night postal work.

Babe Gets 13th.

New York, May 22.—Babe Ruth, keeping well ahead of his 1927 record, batted out his thirteenth homer of the season in the sixth inning of today's game between the Yankees and the Boston Red Sox. The blow was made off Varriss.

Fall From Windmill Kills.

Wichita, Kan., May 22.—L. Hamilton, aged farmer, died of injuries suffered when he fell from a windmill on his Derby, Kan., farm near here.

The Rev. R. W. Burns Coming Here June 8

New Christian Pastor to Stay Until June 13.—Duties at Webster Groves End July 22.

The Rev. Robert W. Burns of Webster Groves, Mo., newly elected pastor of the First Christian Church here, who will take up his duties with the church the last week in July or the first week in August is coming to Maryville next month to visit a week.

The Rev. Mr. Burns has indicated he will arrive in Maryville June 8 and will fill the pulpit at the Christian Church Sunday, June 10. He plans to return to Webster Groves, June 13.

His duties with the Webster Groves church will end Sunday, July 22.

Harvey Bush Here for Commencement

Harvey Bush, a former student of the State Teachers College, who has been supervisor of music at Sedan, Kan., arrived here today to attend the commencement exercises at the College. Mr. Bush has been employed as supervisor of music at the schools at Liberal, Kan., for next year.

Miss Margaret Mills, also a former student, is expected to arrive here tomorrow from Egbert, Wyo., where she was supervisor of music this year.

himself, the gas had not reached him by some freak.

No Food or Drink.

"Bucsha was sitting in the dark on a steel rail. He was hunched up like a bird when we came upon him. I don't believe he had had anything to eat or drink during the 55 hours he was in the mine.

"Bucsha had lost his mine lamp and was in total darkness.

"We started to carry him out of the butt and he began to tell us of his long vigil.

"'I heard the explosion,' he said in broken English. 'I started out and something push me back. Another man came and we wait together hours and hours. We didn't talk much. After two days he started out alone. That's all.'

"We carried Bucsha back to the shart. Part of the time his mind was clear and he spoke rationally. At other times during the mile and a half trip to the pit mouth his mind wandered and he talked of things that had occurred in his boarding house some time before.

More Doctors Summoned.

"But when we got to the pit mouth he got up off the stretcher and was able to walk to the cot in the emergency room. He said he wanted coffee and it was given to him. This seemed to revive him."

Special calls were sent to Waynesburg, Pa., and other nearby towns for more doctors and nurses to be on hand when the rescuers reached the main group of entombed men.

It is thought that somewhere within these depths a group of 100 men or bodies will be found together. It is known that 100 men, members of the night crew, who took their position a few minutes before the blast came, were together. They may have been able to barricade themselves against the gas.

The gloom of death had settled closer today about the little mining town.

The townsfolk, mostly women and children, have come to feel the extreme seriousness of the explosion.

cans as long as that is possible.

Officials here said they believed Chang Tso-Lin will be unable to stave off capture of Peking and it is foreseen that his announced determination to defend the city will mean that capture will be marked with wholesale slaughter.

Fighting Zones Changes.

London, May 22.—China's civil war may be diverted northward and further inland from Shantung instead of moving from the Peking area northeastward toward Machuria, it was indicated today.

Provided that Chang Tso-Lin, northern commander-in-chief, does not defeat the advancing Nationalists, it appeared that the fighting zone might continue toward the inner Mongolian section of the great wall, instead of switching—as had been taken for granted—toward Manchuria.

The reason for the probable diversion is Japan's strategic cordon of troops in Shantung and further north in southern Manchuria, where Japan has said she will permit no fighting because of her great interests there.

For the moment, interest is concentrated at Peking, seat of the northern government. The northerners' military fate, it is believed, depends largely upon the political situation—first Japan's attitude and secondly the extension of Nationalist propaganda into the Peking area.

"California Jack" Here With Wolf and Dogs of Movie Fame

Driving through in an auto pullman from Los Angeles via British Columbia to Chicago, "California Jack" and his wife and baby arrived here at noon today, probably for an overnight stop.

California Jack, who said he has appeared in the Royal Northwest mounted police pictures, carried what he said were some of the noted dogs and a wolf of motion picture fame.

Included were "White Fangs," a full cousin to "Rin Tin Tin," and the lead dog of Gunnar Kossan's dog team, which carried anti-toxin to the disease ridden city of Nome, Alaska, about two and a half years ago.

California Jack said he had just appeared at the Pantages Theater, Kansas City and had been playing at theaters in Oklahoma City, Okla., and others enroute from British Columbia and Washington. His destination may be the Hudson Bay country, he said. He carried a motion picture filming machine and had been taking pictures of outdoor life as he tours the country.

He said that the big timber wolf which Warner Brothers use in their wolf scenes, weighing 150 pounds, was included among his assortment of animals on the trip. Two of the animals were confined in cages at the rear of his auto pullman.

"California Jack" claims his home as Hollywood, which he said he left about six months ago. His acts at the theaters where he stops, performs feats with the lariat and displays his dogs and wolf.

He carries a complete traveling equipment in the Chandler car which has been converted into the "pullman," and the equipment includes a radio. California Jack was attired in clothing suitable for camping and his whiskers showed that he had not been in a barber shop for more than a week. This noon he was making negotiations for booking at the Missouri Theater tonight.

Morrow Will Report on Mexican Affairs

Ambassador to Mexico City to Leave There Soon for Short Visit in United States.

Mexico City, May 22.—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow will leave here at the end of this month for a short visit to the United States, going first to Washington to report on Mexican matters to Secretary of State Kellogg.

Although credited in some quarters with accomplishing much toward establishment of good will between the United States and Mexico the Ambassador still is confronted with several knotty problems.

The outstanding success of Morrow's ambassadorial term so far has been his settlement of the oil controversy. In making his agreement with the Mexicans he went 50-50 with them. He got the Mexican government to rescind its regulation whereunder oil lands would automatically pass from private to public ownership within a certain term of years and instead to recognize the perpetuity of private ownership once title to the lands was proved.

Each Side Gained.

In exchange the agreement provided for formal recognition of the right of the Mexican courts to pass finally upon the authenticity of the land titles held by aliens. Each side thus gained something.

Among the questions remaining to be solved the agrarian problem probably is the most important. It concerns land belonging to aliens taken by the Mexicans for questionable compensation, to be parcelled out among Indian peasants.

The settlement of Mexico's external debt is another problem. A third is the dispute between the Catholic Church and the Mexican government. This is the most delicate of all because it is a domestic matter and whatever Ambassador Morrow is able to do must be done in informal fashion purely as a friendly act.

Daughter to Graduate.

The Ambassador will be accompanied by his wife on the northward trip. After going to Washington he and Mrs. Morrow plan to spend some time at North Haven, Me.

Ambassador Morrow will attend the Commencement exercises at Marshall College in West Virginia where his father formerly was the principal and then will go to the Smith College commencement exercises for the graduation of his daughter, Anne.

He plans to return to Mexico about July 1.

Around the World, Around the Clock

Budapest, May 22.—Cardinal Prince Seredi has messaged Catholics throughout the world inviting them to attend the Eucharistic congress at Budapest from May to October in 1930. It was reported here that the message was sent out with the approval of Pope Pius.

Copenhaken, May 22.—The dirigible Italia is ready for its next flight to the North Polar area and General Umberto Nobile today awaited good weather so that he might make the start. Should adverse wins continue, advices from Kings Bay say, he may fly to Greenland rather than directly to the pole. If the polar flight is made, Nobile hopes to land his meterologist, Malmgren, and the engineer, Trojans, in a small rubber boat, on the pole.

London, May 22.—Alan Dale, 67, prominent American dramatic critic, died suddenly last night while en route from Plymouth to Birmingham. He had recently come to London and was en route to his birthplace at Birmingham. Alan Dale had been dramatic critic of the New York American for 33 years and was one of the veterans among New York's reviewers. His real name was Alfred J. Cohen.

Helsingfors, May 22.—One woman was killed and four other persons were injured when two airplanes crashed in mid-air and fell into the middle of the business district at Visborg, reports here said today. The two airplanes were army machines and were maneuvering over the city. They landed on a motor car in the business district.

Tripoli, May 22.—Twenty rebels were killed when five columns of Italian native troops, escorted by airplanes and armored motor cars, policed an area of 30,000 square kilometers. There were no Italian casualties in engagements which lasted from May 5 to 16. The policing included Quadrilateral, Nuffilia, Agheila, Zella, and Madra.

"Dry" Made Chairman of Texas Convention

Al Smith Supporters Join With Moody Followers—Defeat of Love Faction Forecast.

Beaumont, Tex., May 22.—W. L. Dean of Huntsville, author of the Dean law, the "Volstead Act" of Texas, was elected temporary chairman of the Democratic state convention here today.

Al Smith supporters joined with the Moody harmony followers to place the noted Texas dry in the coveted post.

Election of Dean was the first test of the strength of the Moody forces and indicative of what may be expected in today's convention program. Assistance of the Smith following apparently sounded the death knell of the power of the action headed by Senator Tom Love of Dallas, which has held out for a state delegation instructed against the New York governor at the Democratic national convention at Houston. Moody forces have been demanding instructions against no one, their greatest insistence being upon the inclusion of a dry plank in the platofrm.

New Scenery to College Stage for Senior Play Saturday Night

New scenery is being set up today on the stage of the auditorium at the State Teachers College for the senior play which will be given Saturday night. F. D. Hunt, of the Kansas City Scenic Studio Company, which is the largest plant of its kind in the United States, has charge of the work and it is expected that it will be completed and ready for use by Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

There will be two complete sets of cycloramas, giving the audience a pictorial view which extends around the stage so that the spectator is surrounded as if by things of nature. One setting will be gray and the other of reddish hue. Besides the two cycloramas, a drop will also be put in for use in some of the other scenes. This scenery will be left permanently after the seniors are through with it. This is one of the biggest additions to the auditorium that has been made in years, as it increases the acoustic properties of the auditorium.

It is a well known fact that the Shakespearean plays, at the time they were written, were given without scenery at all. Only signs were used to designate the different scenes. If a woods was to be represented, the sign read "Woods." Anyone who went behind the sign, although in full view of the audience, was supposed to have been hidden and a good imagination was required of the audience to enjoy the production.

In the senior play, more than $360 will be spent on the scenery alone and no one will have to imagine a thing. Mr. Hunt has been in the scenery work for more than thirty years and will undoubtedly add greatly to the appearance of the stage. There are great difficulties to be overcome on the College stage since so little work has been done along this line before.

Besides the scenery, new costumes will be furnished by the Theo Liben Company of Omaha. It is expected that the costumes will be here in a few days.

Pre-convention sessions brought forth that the Smith following would find no fault with the dry nature of the Moody followers—apparently choosing to align with the harmony forces as compared to the bitter anti-Smith party.

Mrs. Charles Broyles of Wilcox is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Kate Bennett, at King City, this week.

See Unanimous Vote for Smith in Jersey

Trenton, N. J., May 22.—unanimous support of Gov. Alfred E. Smith for the presidential nomination was predicted by delegates when the Democratic state convention opened today.

It was also said that the state platform would include an anti-prohibition plank.

Hopkins Man Has Scrapbooks Describing the War With Spain

The Spanish American War was being fought thirty years ago this summer. As a result of that war, the United States came to the front as a great power in the eyes of the world probably more than in any other up to that time, while Spain sank further into the background toward which she has settled since the sinking of the Spanish Armada.

Two scrap books, giving in complete detail the progress of the war as depicted in the newspapers of the time, have been found in the library of O. H. Sayler of Hopkins. Mr. Sayler kept these clippings all during the conflict.

One of the major questions of U. S. policy today, the disposition of the Philippine Islands and other small possessions obtained from Spain by the treaty, is directly due to the conflict of thirty years ago.

America entered this war in the cause of humanity, but the war was precipitated directly by the sinking of the battleship "Maine."

Warship Blown Up.

The following telegram was received by Secretary of the Navy Long at Washington from Captain Sigsbee on Wednesday last.

"Maine blown up in Havana harbor 9:40 and destroyed. Many wounded and doubtless more killed and drowned. Wounded and others on board the Spanish man-of-war and Ward line steamer.

"Send lighthouse tender from Key West for crew and few pieces of equipment still above water. No one has other clothes than those upon him.

"Public opinion should be suspended until further report.

"All officers believed to be saved; Jenkins and Merritt not yet accounted for. Many Spanish officers, including representatives of General Blanco, now with me, express sympathy. Sigsbee."

Later came the following detailed dispatch from Sigsbee:

Lost and Missing 253.

"Advise send wrecking vessel at once. Maine submerged except debris, mostly work for divers now. Jenkins and Merritt are still missing. Little hope for their safety. Those known to be saved are: Officers 24, uninjured; crew, 18; wounded, now on board the Ward line steamer, in city and in hospital at hotel, 59, so far as known. All others went down on board or near the Maine. The total lost and missing 253.

"With several exceptions no officer nor man has more than a part of a suit of clothing and that is wet with harbor water. Ward steamer leaves for Mexico at 2 this afternoon. Officers saved are uninjured. Damage was in compartments of crew. I am preparing to telegraph list of wounded and saved. Olivette leaves for Key West at 1 p. m. Will send by her to Key West the officers saved except myself and Wainwright, Herman, Henneberger. Ray and Holden will turn over three uninjured boats to captain of the port, with request for safe keeping. Will send all wounded men to hospital at Havana."

Cause Not Given.

The loss of life is estimated to be at least 270 to 350 brave lives. The cause of the explosion is not given. Havana dispatches indicate that the explosion took place in the magazine of the vessel used for the storing of gun cotton, and many Americans agree in this view of the case. But there are others who think it a strange coincidence that this should follow so soon upon the disgraceful disclosure of the DeLome letters and almost at the time of his departure. Captain Sigsbee's first dispatch was that of a cool-headed, practical, conservative man.

Sigsbee, U. S. S. Maine, Havana: The President directs me to express for himself and the people of the United States, his profound sympathy with the officers and the crew of the Maine, and desires that no expense be spared in providing for the survivors and the care of the dead. John D. Long, Secretary.

Key West, Fla., Feb. 16.—The lighthouse tender, Mangrove, sailed for Havana at 3 o'clock this morning, having on board several doctors. The Steamer Fern also sailed for Havana and the Torpedo boat, Ericsson, left at midnight with dispatches for the fleet.

No details have been received here regarding the disaster to the Maine, and the list of killed and injured is unobtainable here.

TOMATOES IN GARDEN OF DR. MILLER — RIPE

As a Result, M. A. Peery Will Be Host at Dinner for Second Consecutive Year.

Once upon a time there were two men.

The time was two years ago.

The men were and are: Dr. Jesse Miller and M. A. Peery.

Said Mr. Peery: "I'll bet you that I have ripe tomatoes in my garden before you do."

Said Dr. Miller: "I'll bet you don't." Mr. Peery didn't.

Now let's bring the story up to date.

A few weeks ago said Mr. Peery: "I'll bet you a family dinner that I have ripe tomatoes in my garden before you do."

Said Dr. Miller: "All right. I'll bet you a family dinner that you don't."

Now in the meantime Dr. Miller did a bit of scouting around. He went to his pastor. "Mr. Woodhull, how do you suggest that I beat Mr. Peery?"

The Rev. W. S. Woodhull of the First Methodist Church said, "Go to the greenhouse and get tomato plants with ripe tomatoes on them and set them out." (This statement can be proved).

"But," interrupted J. F. Hull, at a meeting of the Men's Monday Forum, "do you think that would be good sportsmanship, Mr. Woodhull?"

Answered the pastor, "I am not considering the sportsmanship, I am trying to teach Marve Peery not to bet."

But we're getting away from the tomatoes.

A week ago last Sunday, Dr. Miller and Mr. Peery were playing golf (before church). From here Dr. Miller tells the story.

"I let Peery beat me at golf and then took him down to my garden.

"I had my tomato plants with the ripe tomatoes on them next to the fence and Peery didn't see them as he went in. He looked at some others that I have in the garden, and said: 'Oh, hell, you haven't got me beat much.'

"'You're looking at the wrong ones,' I told him. I showed him the ones along the fence with ripe tomatoes on the vines. He looked closely to see that they weren't tied on. Then he said 'When do you want your dinner?'"

P. S. Those desiring to know the truth about Dr. Miller's ripe tomatoes may see C. H. Withington, grower of plants par excellence, at the State Teachers College.

Niece and Nephew of Eddie Lee Die

Two Children Are Scarlet Fever Victims, While Mother Is Seriously Ill.

Doris Owen and Robert Peery of St. Joseph, children of Mrs. Grant Peery, a sister of Eddie Lee of Maryville, have died following an illness of scarlet fever and the mother is seriously ill in a St. Joseph hospital, while two other children, Margaret and G. C. Peery, are also victims of the dread disease but are improving.

Doris Owen, 19 months old, died Sunday morning, and Robert, 6 years old, died at 9 o'clock last night. The funeral for the children and burial will be held this afternoon at Ford City, where Mrs. Peery formerly lived. She has visited here.

Mrs. Peery was reported somewhat better this morning. She was able to be moved to Ford City, where a private funeral was held for both children at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The mother will remain at Ford City.

Mrs. May Jones of this city is a sister of Mrs. Peery.

Commencement Held for Pickering High

Audience Thursday Night Taxes Capacity of Church.—G. H. Colbert Speaker.

The commencement exercises of the Pickering High School were held Thursday night. They were attended by an audience which taxed the seating capacity of the M. E. Church in which the exercises were held.

Each of the seven graduates had a part in the class program. Donald Johnson, a member of the Junior class, rendered a piano solo during the exercises.

After the program by the class, G. H. Colbert of the State Teachers College faculty gave the class adress, taking as his subject, "What Next?"

He discussed the advisability of a college education and also the need of a person choosing his vocation and then preparing himself for it in order that he may reach the highest degree of proficiency in his life's work.

The class history, given by Miss Hazel Scott, brought out the fact that this class numbered eighteen in its freshman year. Of those who dropped out of the class, a number went to other schools and are graduating this year.

Another interesting event of the class history was the marriage of Brice Rickard and Opal Swaney, two members of the class, early in this year, and both of them continuing in school and completing the year's work. Mrs. Rickard was class salutatorian and Miss Verna Pistole valedictorian.

The other members of the class were Verna Treese, Helen Scott, Orlin McGuire, Brice Rickard and Glenn Swaney.

MOTHERS' DAY AT COLLEGE

MORE THAN 100 TO BE ENTERTAINED TOMORROW.

DAUGHTERS AS HOSTS

Luncheon to Be Held at Noon and Visitors Will Have Places of Honor at May Fete.

The Program.

10:00 a. m. assembly which mothers will attend.
12:30 p. m. luncheon for mothers at Residence Hall.
4:30 p. m. Mothers will be guests of honor at May fete.

The first Mother's Day at the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College will be held tomorrow and from present indications more than 100 mothers will attend.

Reservations for the luncheon at Residence Hall in honor of the mothers were 175 when the registration time ended last night. Many late requests came this morning.

"It is most regrettable that we won't be able to accommodate all those who register late, but the number registered already has gone 25 above the limit which was set by Miss Vida Reckmeyer, director, at Residence Hall," Miss Edith A. Barnard, dean of women, said this morning.

Mothers and their daughters will attend the luncheon.

Members of the courtesy committee will show the mothers over the buildings and grounds and will be hostesses in social hall when they are not in class tomorrow. The members of this committee are: Misses Helen Henkins, Pauline Andrews, Vera Fattig, Alberta Jones, Estelle Campbell, Viola Cox, Mary Margaret Meyer, Mary Goodpasture, Ruth Fields, Grace Gallatin, Lorine Harris, Noreen White, Pauline Walker, Bernece Cox, Mabel Long.

Committee in charge of the luncheon: Misses Helen White, Helen Fouts, Viola Cox, Grace Gallatin and Lorrine Harris.

Committee in charge of decorations for luncheon: Misses Leola Miller and Lois Mae Dakan.

Ushers at fete: Misses Vera Fattig and Estelle Campbell.

The mothers are invited to assembly at the college at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, when the college high school graduation exercises will be held. Professor Claude Phillips, a member of the faculty of the School of Education of the University of Missouri and formerly dean of the faculty at the Warrensburg State Teachers College, a brother of Homer T. Phillips of the College faculty here, will give the graduation address.

Seats will be reserved for the mothers at the May fete at 4:30 o'clock.

At the luncheon at Residence Hall at 12:30 o'clock group singing, led by Miss Grace Gallatin, and other music will be features. The luncheon will be closed with the singing of the Alma Mater.

The girl students of the College have done all of the planning and work of the day, Miss Barnard said this morning. "Not a woman member of the faculty has helped," she declared.

New Company Takes Over Reavis Store

Shoe Stock Is Purchased After Assignment to Satisfy Creditors.—Business to Continue.

The Maryville Shoe Company announced today that it had acquired the stock of the Reavis Shoe company, 109 East Fourth street, and that the business will be conducted under the management of Robert Larmer and Morris Chick. The shoe repair department will be continued with L. H. Shanks as repair man.

The Maryville Shoe company bought the stock of shoes from Edward J. Hopkins, representative of the Roberts, Johnson and Rand Shoe company, a branch of the International shoe company. The assets of the Reavis store were assigned to Mr. Hopkins as trustee by Mr. and Mrs. Reavis and Warren Thummel to satisfy the creditors.

Mr. and Mrs. Reavis and Mr. Thummel also made an assignment of 240 acres of land, located near Parnell, subject to a mortgage of $16,400, and their home in Maryville, valued at $6,500, encumbered by mortgages totaling $5,200.

It is understood that the Reavis stock was sold for $5,500 by the trustee, who intends to hold the land for private sale.

Mr. Larmer, now in charge of the store, is an experienced shoe man and has been connected with the Reavis store for a number of years. Mr. Chick has been working in the store for several weeks. Prior to this winter, when he was employed at the Chamber of Commerce office, he was an employe of the Montgomery shoe store.

The Maryville Shoe company is incorporated. It is understood the members of the incorporation besides Larmer and Chick are Lloyd Sugg and U. G. Whiffen.

Struggle, Not Ease, Path to Greatness

Facing of Difficulties Makes for Strength, Says Dewar.—Beaten Path for Beaten Men.

Life presents two, and only two, choices, the Rev. W. N. Dewar said in a sermon at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday morning. The first, he asserted, is pleasure, soon becoming ashes; the second struggle ending with victory.

The Reverend Mr. Dewar declared "one of the greatest desires of humanity is an easy life," but stressed that "an easy life will never lead to the path of greatness."

He spoke on "The Making of Men," and used as his text Matthew 21:23.

"The question for all young men," the minister said, "'Did Christ come to make life easy or men great?' The answer determines the help or the hurt of all council concerning courses of action.

"Virtue, said Seneca, withers away if it has no opposition. No quality can keep bright and vigorous unless it rubs against some resistance.

"Christ came to face difficulty—to espouse the cause of truth against error, to take the field in behalf of every threatened virtue.

"There is something sublime in the way Christ stands before me and dares to say, 'If any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow Me.'"

The Reverend Mr. Dewar held the purpose of Christ is "not to secure a multitude of followers, but to create lives of power."

"Greatness with Him," he added, "is never a negation, an absence of meanness, of impurity or of dishonesty; rather is an affirmative,—the presence of virtue, of force, of aggressiveness.

"To make men great was God's purpose in all ages.

"'The way is narrow—walk ye in it. Narrow is the gate—strive to enter in.' It calls for energy, high purpose and perseverance.

"The broad way is the way of weaklings. The beaten path is for beaten men.

"The cry has gone up for generations of mankind: 'Would God it were easier to be good.' It is a mistaken cry.

"Christ says, take the field and save humanity, cost what it may."

Religion Aids Living Up to Possibilities

Strength Given in Hours of Weakness, the Rev. R. A. Mitchell Says In Sermon.

"Most of us are living below the level of our possibilities. There are hours of our life when we admit that we are hesitant, timid, shrinking and cowardly. We confess that we are not what we ought to be.

"There are great hours of life when we are conscious that we are empowered, when we live our very best."

The difference, according to a sermon preached Sunday morning at the M. E. Church, South, by the Rev. R. A. Mitchell, is the strength that comes with Christianity to "help the ordinary man and woman in their hour of weakness."

The Reverend Mr. Mitchell used a text from Hebrews 11:34: "Out of weakness we are made strong."

"There is a universal desire for strength—strength physical, mental and spiritual," he pointed out. "No man wants to be weak, frail, cowardly. We build our castles in the air; we dream our dreams; we want to count for something in the world's great work."

With these emotions, Jesus sympathized, the minister declared:

"When Jesus saw a lame man His heart went out to him. When He saw the blind with their sightless eyes, He wanted to bring them sight. Jesus felt there was something lacking and that He had come to help people to realize their opportunities and enjoy to the utmost their capacities."

As examples of inspired strength, Mr. Mitchell cited the mother fighting for the life of a child; a man bearing great business burdens, with perhaps a sick wife or invalid child at home; a man cheerful despite years of suffering.

Will, the pastor asserted, is not enough. He gave two stories, one of Ulysses and the Sirens, the other of Orpheus and the Sirens; the first stuffing cotton in the ears of his men and tying himself to the mast to resist the sirens' music; the second playing sweeter music.

"In getting rid of the deterring things of life, it is not enough simply to drive them out; you must have something in their place," he emphasized.

"That is why Christianity is the salvation of men. It does not ask them to rely on their own strength."

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Cummins of Burlington Junction were here yesterday on business.

NORRIS WILL TALK ISSUES

OTHERS ON CAPITAL HILL STEER CLEAR.

MONOPOLY HIS FIRST

Water Power, Honesty, Freight Rates, Foreign Policy and Prohibition Are Other Planks.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington, May 22.—Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, chairman of the Senate judiciary committee, was the only man found in a day's search of Capitol Hill who was willing to talk about presidntial campaign issues.

"I don't know what the campaign issues will be," he said, "but I can tell you what they ought to be."

The senator's political creed isn't popular with many people, but he is commonly regarded here as the biggest man in the Senate today, so here goes:

"Everything depends on what happens at the conventions," he began "The Republicans can't evade the biggest issues if the Democrats take them up. If the standpatters in both parties who have been denouncing the progressive element control both conventions we won't hear much about those issues from either party.

Monopoly Main Issue.

"Monopoly ought to be the main issue. We ought to have a candidate who would be willing to tackle the trusts particularly the water power trust.

"That issue is linked with the conservation of our natural resources, particularly water power.

"Punishment of those who have violated the law, who have bribed and debauched the government, ought to be somewhat of an issue, it seems to me.

"And railroad freight rates.

"The assumption of power by the executive has become a vitally important issue. Appointments of men to positions of public trust in which they are supposed to serve the people as a whole ought not to come from the fellows who believe implicitly that big business can do no wrong. That has brought about a very unsatisfactory situation.

"I suppose endorsement of the Coolidge policies will be an issue, but it involves all that sort of thing.

Foreign Policy Another.

"I don't see how our foreign policy can help becoming an issue, after the war in Nicaragua during which we have killed so many natives.

"The parties and candidates ought either to endorse or condemn the lame duck amendment.

"That issue ought to be brought up in the campaign of every senator and representative who voted against it. Those who favor it ought to stress it in every campaign and the voters ought to demand how their representatives in Congress voted on it—and why!

"There is another serious issue in the fact that the House of Representatives is controlled by an oligarchy of five or six men. The reason is that it is so large that power has to be concentrated in the hands of a few to make the machine work. The real cure for that is to cut the membership down to about 200.

"I don't see how both parties can avoid prohibition enforcement as an issue. One can't if the other doesn't.

"The people ought to demand that the prohibition law be enforced in good faith.

"It never has been."

South Dakota's Vote Has Little Meaning

Primary There Today Holds Little Interest as Lowden Was Nominated at Proposal Meeting.

Pierre, S. D., May 22.—South Dakota goes to the polls today in primary election with several contests among Democrats and Republican contests only for congressman in two of the three congressional districts. The farmer-labor party has a contest in one congressional district and for governor lieutenant governor and secretary of state.

Nationally, the South Dakota primary is of little interest except as the primary vote might indicate size of the turnout in the November election. The Republican proposal meeting, or state convention, nominated Lowden of Illinois for presidential preference and the Democratic convention endorsed Al Smith. Owing to a strict registration law there is little opportunity in the primary for members of one party to vote in another and as a result the South Dakota primary will indicate practically nothing as to presidential possibilities.

Education and Crime.

Lebanon, Ind., May 22.—Seventeen percent of the 2,000 boys in the state reformatory at Pendleton, Ind., have no education at all, 52 percent have never gone beyond the third grade, and two percent have never entered high school, Professor Stout Scott in charge of the reformatory school said in an address here.

Scott, who has been employed at the reformatory for 20 years, added that there was not a single college graduate in the institution.

Introducing Mrs. Alfred E. Smith--

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of articles on the wives of presidential candidates by Allene Sumner, Democrat-Forum and NEA Service writer. Miss Sumner has spent much time visiting and interviewing prospective "First Ladies" and presents many new facts in connection with them.

By ALLENE SUMNER
Staff Writer for Democrat-Forum and NEA Service.

Albany, N. Y., May 22.—If Governor Al Smith goes to the White House that's perfectly okay with Mrs. Governor Smith, but if "Alfred" doesn't land there the lady in the case doesn't "see any use in fussing around about it; it's meant that way, and as long as we have each other and the children we'll be happy any place."

This sums up, pretty much in her own words, the attitude of Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, First Lady of New York state, concerning her possible future as First Lady of America.

Contentment and happiness in her home and family anywhere and anytime so permeates Mrs. Smith that she fairly radiates her contentment.

We talked about "the children," the monkeys in the executive mansion's backyard, and the house as we sat together on a green and gold divan in the French and Chinese reception room.

I felt acquainted with the mistress of this big house long before she came down the grand stairway with "Alfred" and some men luncheon guests. I had become acquainted with her during my half hour's wait there.

Just Like Real Home.

It was a House of Noises—family noises—not the hushed, dignified mausoleum-like house that First Homes so often are.

I heard a woman laughing upstairs—not a sophisticated, restrained tinkle of laughter, but a real laugh punctuating the baritone conversation. I knew that it was Mrs. Smith. I had been told that the governor didn't even like to entertain at a stag lunch without "The Chairman" around to make everybody feel right at home.

Some parrots and goldfinches were chattering, a baby cried, a child's scooter dashed across a floor, doors slammed, and the major domo could be heard ordering "better berries today."

It didn't seem like an executive mansion. It seemed like just a home . . . . a home of family noises.

When Mrs. Smith breezed in, still laughing over the jokes and fun had by the little group of friends in the private quarters upstairs, I just couldn't and wouldn't believe that here was a First Lady. She wouldn't let me. She just wanted to "neighbor over the fence" about the children and the children's children and needlepoint and the tulips up the front walk, and whether I'd had a long hard trip.

Is Easy to Talk To

Mrs. Smith is the easiest person to talk to and with one could imagine. Her first concern is to put the stranger at ease. The "governor's lady" was in a copperish green chenile with amethyst earrings. First of all she pointed out Emily and Walter and Arthur, and Arthur's wife and little Walter and Alfred, junior, in the dozen or so chased silver frames about the room.

There are innumerable framed pictures of various members of the Smith family in the 20-room mansion. I lost count on my tour of the old house. The pictures were the possessions pointed out by not the First Lady, but by just "mamma" and "grandma" as we went from one room and one floor to another.

The old old carved clock in the hall might be passed by without a word but not a single picture of any of the brood, and her own exquisite needlepoint bell ropes and chair seats and divan covers failed to be pointed out.

This tour with the First Lady proved her 100 per cent domesticity perfectly. She stressed the bath room and fireplace with each guest chamber, the reading lamps, the "good air" which Walter, the baby, aged 19, got in his room. Here was just any woman parading her home, large or small.

Family All That Matters

"A home's just a home anyplace," Mrs. Al Smith epigrammed. "The only thing that matters to me now, ever has mattered, or ever will is my home and Al and the children.

"I just can't imagine a home with only one or two children, either. What do they do at Christmas and Thanksgiving? The children and Al and I have had such good times together all our lives. Why, you should have just dropped in on us sometime when we lived in New York! We'd all get around the table and have a regular circus.

"Big rooms and things like this don't make families happy," she philosophized with a sweep of the hand at the lamps and cushions and oriental rugs and French dolls and carved chests and china ornaments.

"I'm not a bit happier here than I was in our Olive street three-room flat, and I won't be a bit happier in the White House than here. But if Al wants it—"

The First Lady of New York likes many "pretty things" about her. Two French dolls in cerise adorn the green taffeta bedstread of the gubernatorial bed. A "health machine" stands by the bed. An altar with candles and images is at one end of the room.

Off this room is Mrs. Smith's own boudoir. A French doll sat in every chair. Cloissone and illumined leather, taffeta and drapes, cushions and mother of pearl, made the "boudoir" a regular Cecil B. De Mille movie set.

Movies in Home.

"Yes, it's cozy and cheery," said Mrs. Smith, gazing fondly at her own sanctum.

The governor's study is on this floor, and a private sitting room. It is here that the Smith private life is lived, the Sunday afternoons when all the children come home with the grand children, where they see the new movies several nights a week, and where their old friends from the Bronx and east side gather around the fireside to talk over the good old days.

It is here that Mrs. Smith sits, too, when "Al" is away, waiting for the daily or twice daily phone call that comes to her from him wherever he may be.

Always the same words, over the phone:

"How are you, Katie? Are the children all right?"

"Yes, Al, we're all fine. How're you?"

The mansion has several cabinets of porcelain and china—bits of Americana which the First Lady finds in old farmhouses to which the gubernatorial car takes her through all New England. She loves motoring and she loves collecting and she loves a bargain. She chuckles to tell how the farmhouse inmates have no idea to whom they're selling till after she's gone.

The china collection is amusing with one cabinet containing six little elephants and only one coal black donkey. Mrs. Al's maternal interests crop out here, too. There are china baby shoes and china mothers with babies and china little boys and girls.

There is a big silver-framed picture of the governor on her dressing table. It is inscribed:

"To my dear Katie on our twenty-fifth anniversary of married happiness."

Her Philosophy

"We've been married 28 years," says Mrs. Smith, smiling at the picture. "I think early marriages are best; you have that many more years together with the children. Not that I ever feel I lose my children when they marry; you can still keep them if you're the right kind of a mother; why, my two married sons call me every day! It just means you get some more children and the grand children."

And there yau have Catherine Smith, First Lady of New York, potential First Lady of America. Children owe nothing to parents; they give parents pleasure in their very being; the price of having and rearing them is the reward, too. Children have lives of their own, and the more you let them go the more they'll stay with you.

"I suppose some women can have families and do other jobs, too," says Mrs. Al Smith. "But I was never that kind myself. I never wanted anything in my life but my home and family. I think a woman's doing the biggest job if she turns out the right men folks to do the outside work. But it takes all kinds of women to make a world, and maybe we need the other kind, too."

Kinder, Kirche and Kueche and not ashamed of it, but glorying in it, that's Mrs. Al Smith, who'd mean a friendly, neighborly, home-loving woman in the White House!

TOMORROW: Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

COPYRIGHT 1928 BY NEA SERVICE

By ANNE AUSTIN AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SALLY FORD, ward of the state orphanage from the time she is four is "farmed out" to CLEM CARSON when she is 16 and meets DAVID NASH, athlete and student who is working on the farm for the summer. Carson makes insulting remarks about David's friendship for Sally and the student strikes him a terific blow.

Sally and David run away and join a carnival, David as cook's helper and Sally in a sideshow disguised as "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer.

Nita, Hula dancer, who knows the police are after David and Sally and who is infatuated with David, threatens to expose Sally if she doesn't keep "hands off" the young student.

The carnival goes next to Capital City, where Sally spent so many years in the orphanage. She soon forgets her fears of detection and relies on her successful disguise of the crystal gazer. She is confused one afternoon by a handsome, well-dressed Easterner who teasingly reads her fortune in the crystal. She forgets him, however, when she sees her little friends, the wards of the orphanage, troop in with a beautiful, sad-eyed woman. Sally is completely terrified when one of the orphans recognizes her and shouts her name. GUS, the barker, however, comes to her rescue and diverts attention to the freaks. Soon the children troop out and Sally gives her attention to the beautiful woman who is addressing the black-eyed Easterner. They apparently know each other, for they greet each other as Enid and Van. A terrible storm comes up, and the tent blows down. Sally finds herself in the strong arms of the Easterner, who tells her he knows who she is. When they are rescued, Sally looks about and finds David and Nita missing. That night BYBEE'S safe is robbed.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 29

"Everybody tumble out! Pop Bybee wants us all in the privilege car," a carnival employe shouted, running down the sleeping car and pausing only to thrust a hand into each berth, like a Pullman porter awakening his passengers.

But Sally was already dressing, getting her dress on backward and sobbing with futile rage at the time lost in reversing it. When she was scrambling out of her upper berth, a tiny hand reached out of the lower and tugged at her foot.

"Don't forget me, Sally," the midget commanded sharply. "And for heaven's sake, dont take on so! You'll make you're sick, crying like that. Of course David didn't rob the safe. I'm all dressed."

Sally parted the green curtains and stretched out her arms for the midget, who was so short that she could stand upright upon her bed without her head touching the rounded support of the upper berth. Little Miss Tanner ran into Sally's arms and clambered to her shoulder.

"It's that Nita." She nodded her miniature head emphatically. "I always did have my suspicions about her. Always turning white as a sheet when a policeman hove into sight."

"But David's missing, too," Sally sobbed, as she hurried down the aisle which was becoming choked with frowsy-headed women in all stages of dress and undress. "Of course he didn't do it—"

"Hurry up, everybody! Don't take time to primp, girls!" a man bawled at them from the door.

They found most of the men employes and performers of the carnival already assembled with the Bybees in the privilege car. Pop Bybee's usually lobster-colored face was as white as putty, but his arms was gallantly about his wife's shoulder. Mrs. Bybee still wore the black satin petticoat and red sweater in which she had hurried from the show train after the storm. Her reddened eyes showed that she had been crying bitterly, but as the carnival family crowded into the privilege car she searched each face with fury and suspicion.

"Come here to me, Sally Ford!" she shrilled, when Sally entered the car with "Pitty Sing" riding on her shoulder.

"Now, honey, go easy!" Pop Bybee cautioned her futilely. "Better let me do the talking—"

"You shut up!" his wife commanded angrily. "Sally, you knew where I kept the money! You saw the safe! Oh, I was a fool, all right, but I wanted to show that I trusted you! Huh, Thought I'd wronged you by accusing you of taking presents from my husband! Tell him you saw the safe! Tell him!" And she seized Sally's wrist and shook her so that the midget had to cling tightly to the girl's neck to keep from being catapulted to the floor.

"Yes, Mrs. Bybee," Sally answered, her voice almost dying in her throat with fright. "I saw the safe. But I didn't tell anybody—"

"You're a liar!" Mrs. Bybee screamed. "You told that David boy that very night! Sneaked off and went walking with him and cooked up this robbery so you two could make your getaway. Thought it was a grand way to get out of the state so the cops couldn't pinch you, didn't you? Didn't you?" she repeated, beside herself with anger, her fingers clamped like a vise on Sally's wrist.

"Oh, please!" Sally moaned, writhing with a pain of which she was scarcely conscious, so great was her fear and bewilderment at this unexpected charge.

"Sally certainly didn't go with him" Pop Bybee interposed reasonably.

"Sure she didn't!" his wife shrilled with angry triumph. "She couldn't! he was buried under the tent! If it adn't been for the storm she wouldn't e here now, working on your sympathies with them dying-calf eyes of ers—"

"Better let me handle this, honey," Pop Bybee interrupted again, this time more firmly. "Turn the child loose. Ain't a bit of use breaking her arm. Now, folks, I might as well tell you all just what happened, and then try to get to the bottom of this matter. When the worst of the storm was over Mrs. Bybee left the show train to look for me, to see if I was hurt or if she could do anything for anyone who was. She hadn't been out of the stateroom all evening till then—not since she'd put some money into the safe right after supper. She found the boy Dave starting out to look for Sally, and she ordered him to stay on the train to keep an eye on it, in case tramps or crooks tried to board it. There wasn't anybody else on the train. That right, Mother?"

He turned to Mrs. Bybee, who nodded angrily.

"She told him she'd look after Sally, but he'd have to stand guard on the train. She didn't say anything to him about the safe—just told him to patrol the train while she was gone. The safe is under a seat in our stateroom, and far as we knew, nobody knew where it was, except Sally here, who happened to come into the stateroom when my wife was counting a day's receipts."

"Please, Mr. Bybee," Sally interrupted, memory struggling with the panic in her brain. "Someone else did know! Nita knew! When I left the stateroom that last day in Stanton I saw Nita disappearing into the women's dressing room, and I thought she'd been listening. She—"

"Hold on a minute!" Bybee cut in sternly. "How do you know she'd been listening? Any proof?"

"Yes, sir!" Sally cried eagerly. "Mrs. Bybee had been telling me that she'd found out that Ford isn't my real name, that the woman I always thought was my mother wasn't really my mother at all. She said she guessed I—that my mother was ashamed I'd ever been born. And that same day Nita called me a—a—bad name that means—" She could not go on. Sobs began to shake her small body again and her face was scarlet with shame.

"That's right!" Gus, the barker, edged toward Bybee through the crowd. "I found Sally lighting into Nita for calling her that name. And Nita didn't deny she'd done it. Reckon that proves she was eavesdropping, all right. And if she was listening in, she was probably peeping in, too, or heard Mrs. Bybee talking about the safe. Was the door open, ma'am?"

"I don't know!" Mrs. Bybee snapped. "Yes, it may have been. It was awful hot. And I didn't know anybody was on the train."

"It was open a little way," Sally cried. "I remember distinctly. Because I worried about whether Nita had overheard what Mrs. Bybee had been telling me. And there's something else—something that happened that night, when David and I were walking." Memory of that blessed hour in the moonlight brought tears to her eyes, but she dashed them away with the wrist which bore the marks of Mrs. Bybee's rage.

"What was it, Sally?" Pop Bybee asked gently. "All we want is to get at the truth of this thing. Don't be afraid to speak up."

"I hate being a tattle-tale," Sally whimpered. "I never told on anyone before in all my life! But David and I were sitting under a tree, not talking, when we suddenly heard Nita's voice. She couldn't see us for the tree, but we peeped around the trunk of it and we saw Nita and a man walking awfully close together, and Nita was talking. We just heard a few words. She said: 'No monkey business now, Steve. If you double-cross me I'll cut your heart out! Fifty-fifty or nothing—'"

Unconsciously her voice had mimicked Nita's, so that to the startled carnival family it seemed that Nita, the Hula dancer, had appeared suddenly in the car.

"Sounds like Nita, all right," Gus, the barker, nodded with satisfaction. "'Steve,' huh? Who the devil is this Steve?"

"What did he look like, Sally?" Bybee asked.

"I don't know," she answered, her big blue eyes imploring him to believe her. "We couldn't see their faces. We just recognized Nita's voice and her yellow hair that looked almost white in the moonlight. He wasn't tall, not any taller than Nita, and I guess he wasn't very big either, because they were so close together that they looked almost like one person. We didn't hear the man say a word. Nita was doing all the talking—"

"Nita would!" a voice from the crowd growled. Reckon I can tell you something about this, Pop. I was just ready to ballyhoo the last performance of the 'girlie' show when Nita come slouching up to me, pulling a long face and a song-and-dance about being knocked out with the heat. Bessie had fainted at the last show and I thought Nita might really be all in, so I told her she could cut the last performance and go to the dress tent. I never seen hair nor hide of her again, and—" he paused significantly, "I don't reckon I ever will."

"No, I reckon you won't, not unless the cops nab her," Mrs. Bybee cut in bitterly. "I always said she was a snake in the grass! And that David, too! Them goody-goody kind ain't ever worth the powder and lead it'd take to blow out their brains! I told you, Winfield Bybee, that there was something phony about that hussy and Dave! Tain't like a star performer like Nita thought she was to trail around after a cook's helper, like she done with Dave. They didn't pull the wool over my eyes, even if they did double-cross the kid here! Mind you, Bybee, I ain't saying I believe a word she's been saying! She knew where the safe was, and she tipped off the boy.

"I ain't forgot they were both wanted by the police when they joined up with us! As I said before if it had't been that she was buried under the freak tent, she'd have skipped with Nita and Dave. You roped Nita in on your little scheme, didn't you, because she'd had more experience cracking safes than you or the boy? That's right ain't it? the old lady demanded fiercely of Sally.

Sally shrank from her in horror, but the midget, still perched on her shoulder, patted her cheeks reassuringly. "No, no! I didn't even tell David where the safe was! I didn't! David didn't do it! He couldn't! David's good! He's the best man in the world!"

"Then where is he?" Mrs. Bybee screamed. "Why did he blow? I left him to guard the train, didn't I? And he ain't here, is he? He wasn't here when we got back from the carnival lot after the tents was raised. If he's so damned good why did he blow with Nita and this Steve you've made up out of your head?"

"Now, now, Mother," Pop Bybee soothed her, but his eyes were troubled and suspicious. "Reckon we'd better notify the police, folks. I hate to call in the law. I've always, said I was the law of this outfit, but I suppose if I've been harboring thieves I'll have to get the help of the law to track 'em down. Ben, you and Chuck beat it down the tracks to the police station and give 'em a description of Nita and Dave and this Steve person, as much as Sally's been able to tell us anyway—"

"Please, Mr. Bybee! Sally ran to the showman and seized both his hands in hers. "Please don't set the police on David! I know he's innocent! There's some reason why he isn't here—a good reason! But he didn't have anything to do with the robbery. I know that! But if you tell the police he's been with the carnival they'll find him somehow and put him in jail on those other charges—and me, too! It doesn't matter about me, but I couldn't live if David was put in jail on my account! Oh, please! You've been so good to us!" And she went suddenly on her knees to him, her face upraised in an agony of appeal.

(To Be Continued.)

The Period of Bank Failures About Over

The period of bank failures is about over, points out an editorial in "Successful Farming" Magazine. There were 3,117 fewer banks by June 30, 1927, than there were four years previously," this editorial continues. "One thousand eighty-five failed or were absorbed in the fiscal year 1927.

"Those responsible should see to it that no new banks can be created where no new banking facilities are needed. Let us have fewer and stronger banks. More than that, let us have adequate supervision and inspection so that no bank can go on the rocks before anyone is aware of its condition.

"Now that the house of banking has been cleaned, and many depositors were cleaned also, we trust the bankers will do something to keep it clean. We wait with anxiety lest they go asleep again and let insecure banks begin business, or untrained men act as bankers in financially sound banks.

Italian Students Must Don Straws

Rome, May 22.—The wearing of straw hats made of Tuscan straw has been rendered obligatory for all University students, by Signor Augusto Turati, Secretary of the Fascist Party.

The order is part of the national campaign started to promote the general wearing of Italian-made straw hats in order to help the industry, which for one reason or another has recently fallen on bad times.

"The University Straw Hat" has been designed in one type for all the colleges of Italy, but the various universities will wear individual ribbons round the crowd with the college colors, and a badge indicating the city of the student's university.

PRODUCE REVIEW

(Issued by Swift and Company.)

Chicago, May 2.—Weather conditions in most sections of the Central West are favorable at this time for increasing production, but even so, the receipts of butter on the Eastern markets are not increasing as fast as has been anticipated. In fact, at the present time, receipts continue to run lighter than a year ago. There has been a noticeable difference in the tendencies of Chicago and New York markets during the past week, and Monday the Chicago market on 90 Score Standards was quoted at 44 cents, an advance of one cent as compared with last Monday. New York market on 92 Score Extras was 44½ cents, a decline of 2 cents as compared with the high point for the week just past and a decline of 1 cent as compared with last Monday.

Production of fresh eggs continues good, especially so for this season of the year. The receipts of eggs on the four principal Eastern markets from Monday to Thursday last week were 406,683 cases as against 385,092 cases the same days week previous and as compared with 370,985 cases for same days year ago.

Receipts are heavy and with the lack of confidence which has tended to reduce speculative buying for storage purposes, the general egg situation is easier and quotations have declined. It is noticeable at this time that the quality from most sections is somewhat irregular and not of the same value for storage as eggs produced earlier in the season under more favorable weather conditions. In most territories, country prices continue high as compared with the present current and storage values.

Chicago market on eggs: Firsts today quoted easy at 27½ to 28 cents; Monday a week ago 28¾ cents to 29¼ cents. Same comparison with New York egg market Firsts shows outside quotations are unchanged.

The receipts of live poultry on Eastern consuming markets continue heavy for this season of the year, the supply is liberal, buyers have been cautious and the clearance has only been fair. In most cases the actual selling prices on live fowls have worked downward and same is true on dressed fowl. The volume of broilers being received is gradually increasing and sales are being effected entirely on quality basis only. The heavier weights and desirable quality broilers are receiving the top markets.

Chicago poultry market today is quoted as follows: light weights, 23 cents; mediums, 25½c; heavy weights, 23c; old and young roosters 16½c; broilers, heavy weight, good quality 43c; leghorns 35c; mediums 38c.

The following is report of U. S. Cold Storage holdings issued by the United States Department of Agriculture as of May 1st:

Butter, Creamery: May 1st, 5-year average, 7,373,000 pounds; May 1, 1927, 3,436,000 pounds; May 1, 1928 5,139,000 pounds.

Eggs, Cases: May 1st 5-year average 4,282,000 pounds; May 1, 1927, 5,501,000; pounds; May 1, 1928, 4,497,000 pounds. Poultry total: May 1st 5-year average 67,885,000 pounds; May 1, 1927 77,-282,000 pounds; May 1, 1928, 56,783,-000 pounds.

Lower Stock Prices Bring Little Buying

New York, May 22.—Further selling brought stock prices lower today and incentive to buy even at lower levels seemed lacking. Dealings were on a more active scale than yesterday and tickers ran behind the market most of the day.

Airplane stocks were depressed sharply and all the leading stocks, including General Motors, steel, radio and American T. & T., sold down several points.

To Extend Waterworks.

California—A special bond election is to be called here for the purpose of providing funds with which to extend the waterworks system.

St. Louis Produce.

St. Louis, May 22.—Produce unchanged.

New York Produce.

New York, May 22.—Flour dull and partly lower.

Pork steady; mess $31.50.

Lard easier, Midwest spot $12.35 to $12.45.

Sugar, raw dull, spot 96, test delivered duty paid $4.49 to $4.52; refined steady; granulated $5.95 to $6.00.

Coffee, Rio 7s on spot 16 1-8 to 16¼; Santos 4s 24 to 24¼.

Tallow easy; special to extra 8 1-8 to 8½.

Hay steady to firm, No. 1, $1.25; No. 3, 85 to $1.05; clover 75c to $1.00.

Dressed poultry, steady; turkeys 25 to 27; chickens 20 to 47; broilers 30 to 48; capons, 36 to 53; fowls 13 to 31; ducks, Long Island, 22.

Live poultry steady; geese, 10; ducks 15 to 24; fowls, 22 to 29; turkeys 15 to 30; roosters, 14; broilers, 20 to 50.

Cheese firm; state whole milk fancy to specials 29½ to 31; young America fresh 25½.

Butter easier; receipts 20,090; creamery extra 44½; special market 45 to 45½.

Eggs quiet, receipts 16,649; nearby white fancy 34½ to 36; state white, 30 to 34; fresh firsts 29½ to 30; Pacific Coast firsts 29 to 38; white westerns 30 to 32; nearby browns 29½ to 36.

Cattle Strong; Hogs Lower; Lambs Higher

Kansas City Stock Yards, May 22.—Chicago received more cattle than Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis and St. Joseph combined and as a result the market Monday was prevented from showing a general advance. Chicago quoted a decline. Here the market was steady to strong on steers and higher on butcher cattle. Stockers and feeders were in limited supply. Sheep and lamb prices were quoted up 25 cents under an active demand. Hog prices were 5 to 10 cents lower than last week's close and 25 cents under last week's high point.

Monday's Receipts.

Receipts Monday were 8,000 cattle, 12,000 hogs and 8,000 sheep, compared with 10,000 cattle, 12,000 hogs and 12,-000 sheep a week ago, and 9,075 cattle, 12,460 hogs and 14,425 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle.

Yearlings, light and medium weight steers ruled strong to 15 cents higher. Strong and heavy weight steers were steady. Chicago had a heavy run of good to choice fed steers that moved slowly at a 25 cent decline. The top price here was paid for choice steers and heifers mixed. Yearling steers sold up to $14, and heavy steers up to $13.75. Nothing prime was offered in the heavy weight classes. The bulk of the fed steers sold at $12.50 to $13.50; some plain native and dogie steers sold at $11 to $11.75. Indications are that receipts here will remain light. Butcher cattle were strong to 15 cents higher. Choice heifers sold up to $13.50 and choice cows up to $11.50. The bulk of the heifers brought $11.75 to $12.75 and most of the cows $8.75 to $10. Calves and bulls were in active demand at strong prices. The best calves brought $13.50 to $14.

Stockers and Feeders.

Receipts of stockers and feeders were the smallest of the season. Indications are that the runs will continue light until the middle of the summer or later. Prices remain firm.

Hogs.

Hog prices were down 5 to 10 cents from last week's close and 25 cents lower than the high point last week. Liberal runs at more eastern markets caused the decline. Receipts here were moderate and will continue so for some time to come. The 170 to 240 pound hogs sold today at $9.35 to $9.55; 240 to 310 pounds $9.15 to $9.40; 140 to 165 pounds, $8.85 to $9.15; packing sows, $8 to $8.60; and stock hogs and pigs, $7.25 to $7.90. Most of the light lights coming are short of finish and for that reason they are selling at a rather low range.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep and lambs were quoted up 25 cents under an active demand. Shorn lambs brought $15 to $15.50; Arizona spring lambs, $17.50 to $17.85; native springs, $16.75 to $17.75; shorn ewes, $7.50 to $8.10 and shorn wethers, $8.50 to $9. Spring lambs will predominate from now on.

Horses and Mules.

Trade in horses and mules was limited by the light supplies. Prices were steady.

Final Grain Review.

Chicago, May 22.—Unfavorable weather reports from both the American and Canadian belts sent wheat futures higher late in the day on the board of trade. Corn followed wheat in spite of favorable weather reports while oats were also fractionally higher.

At the close wheat was up 1¼c to 2½c; corn was ¼c to ⅝c up and oats had advanced ½c to ¾c. Provisions were lower.

Moderate strength was imparted to the wheat market by reports of unfavorable weather conditions in both the United States and Canada. Higher temperatures were reported over the wheat belts of the northwest and a warm wave predicted for the Canadian belt by the end of the week. Some Manitobas were reported taken for export. The cash market with 11 cars received was unchanged.

Corn was heavy in tone due to the splendid growing weather reported. This report, however, was offset to some extent by wheat. Prospects of higher temperatures over the belt were indicated. The cash market with receipts of 11 cars was unchanged.

Oats showed some strength but news was without special significance receipts were 29 cars and cash market unchanged.

203 MILLIONS OFF TAX TOLL

U. S. CITIZENS TO SAVE THAT AMOUNT ANNUALLY.

BILL PASSES SENATE

House, Which Voted $86,000,000 More Reduction, Is Expected to Concur.

Washington, May 22.—Federal tax payers will save approximately $203,000,000 annually if the House accepts the revenue bill it received today from the Senate and President Coolidge Coolidge signs the measure.

The bill passed the Senate late last night in substantially the form recommended by the finance committee on the basis of Treasury Department estimates. It had been debated more than three weeks.

As originally passed by the House last December, the bill provided for a $289,000,000 tax cut, but Senate amendments reduced the total about $86,000,000. The original and the amended bills now go to conference for adjustment of differences.

Senate Probably Will Win.

The Senate measure is expected to prevail, however, since it is based on March 15 tax returns, unknown when the House passed the first bill, and because it is understood to have administration approval.

Principal provisions of the Senate bill are:

1.—Reduction of the tax rate on corporation incomes from 13½ to 12½ per cent and increased exemption from $2,000 to $3,000. Total reduction $94,000,000.

2.—Downward revision of surtax rates on individual incomes of from $20,000 to $80,000 a year. Total reduction $25,000,000.

3.—Repeal of the 3 per cent automobile excise tax. Total reduction $66,000,000.

4.—Increased exemption on admissions, except to prize fights, from 75 cents to $3. Total reduction $17,000,000.

5.—Complete publicity for income tax returns.

Republican floor leader Tilson of the House and Chairman Hawley of the ways and means committee which drafted the original tax measure expressed confidence that conferees will reach an agreement.

Tilson said he opposes the income tax publicity provision, but believes this will be eliminated in conference.

Republican Hawley said House conferees will study the bill carefully today before the formal conferences begin, probably tomorrow.

House conferees, who will be named soon, will be Hawley, Bacharach, New Jersey, and Treadyway, Massachusetts, Republicans, and Garner, Texas, and Collier, Mississippi, Democrats.

In only a few respects do the House and Senate measures coincide. Both raise to $3,000 from $2,000 the exemptions for corporation taxes, repeal the beverage tax, and reduce the levy on wines. Likewise both add $2,000,000 to the revenues by taxing non-residents' incomes withheld at the source, and $750,000 by taxing 25 per cent all prize fight tickets of $25 or more.

Important Differences.

In other important respects the bills disagree. The House measure would cut the corporation tax rate to 11½ per cent, while the Senate bill would set a rate of 12½. The House provided for halving, instead of eliminating the automobile levy.

The House voted to reduce graduated tax on corporate incomes of less than $15,000 and upon this the House conferees may insist because of the closeness of the vote on this provision in the Senate.

Flight of Van Lear Black Interrupted

American Aerial Tourist Forced to Return From the Sudan to Marseilles.

Amsterdam, May 22.—A flooded landing field at Malakal, in the Sudan, has caused Van Lear Black, aerial Yachtsman of Baltimore, to suspend his airplane flight to Capetown.

The Dutch air lines were informed today that the landing ground at Malakal, which is in Mongalla Province, was flooded and that Black and the pilot of his Dutch air lines plane were returning to Marseilles, France, by steamer, leaving the plane at Khartoum pending resumption of the flight.

The Dutch air lines will have another plane awaiting Black at Marseilles.

He intends to fly to Capetown and back to Cairo and then to Tokio, returning along the same route to Croydon Field, England, from which he started.

William Whorton of Guilford was in Maryville yesterday.

SEEK ORIGIN OF THE GAS

PHOSGENE BLAST IN GERMANY CAUSES INVESTIGATION.

A TREATY VIOLATION?

Rumor Says Deadly Poison Made for Russia.—Wind and Rain Providential After Explosion.

Berlin, May 22.—Mystery veiling the origin of poison gas that terrorized Hamburg caused authorities to begin an investigation.

A man who formerly owned the gas said today that it was left over from the World War supply.

But rumors were current that the gas had been manufactured since the war, in violation of the Versailles treaty, probably for Russia.

The firm that now occupies the premises at which the gas was stored, said that since its tenancy it had called the attention of authorities repeatedly to the gas, but had received no satisfactory response.

The Egfarben company, which under the treaty is permitted to manufacture Phosgene gas for industrial purposes, denied today that the gas that escaped at Hamburg had emanated either directly or indirectly from its plant.

Nature Aids in Fight.

Hamburg, Germany, May 22.—The combination of two forces of nature today had checked the threat of great disaster in the well-populated Vedder labor district where a quantity of deadly phosgene gas escaped from a container.

A friendly wind sent the gas cloud—carrying possibility of death to anyone near it—safely away from the more thickly settled parts of the town.

A steady rain beat down for several hours and dissipated the fumes. Rain and the wind were able to give more aid than the ammonia guns that police, troops and firemen used.

Death Toll to 12.

The death toll had mounted to twelve today, and 200 persons were in the hospital.

Only about nine cubic meters of the gas—one of those gases used so effectively on the western front during war days—escaped yesterday. Seemingly it was a small amount to be scattered over the rangy suburb. However chemists have found that half gram of the gas in one cubic meter of air is sufficient to kill a person who breathes the mixture for a minute.

Many of the Hamburg residents knew of the disasterous results of gas from the war days. Consequently when the residents learned the air was filled with the fumes there was panic.

30,000 From Homes.

More than 30,000 persons rushed from their homes, some collapsing in the streets, while police urged a complete withdrawal from the most highly affected zones. Firemen and Reichswehr troops fought against the fumes with ammonia guns. Some firemen and some police were overcome.

One group was said to have been able to check the flow of gas from the container, but not until after special phosgene gas masks had arrived, some by airplane from Berlin.

Plea to Be Made for Youthful Murderer

Henry Sherman, Slayer of Three Persons, Will Be Defended by Old Friend of Family.

Lincoln, Neb., May 22.—Henry Sherman, youthful murderer of three persons, will not go to the electric chair or to the penitentiary without a substantial plea in his defense, it was apparent here today.

E. M. White, a member of the Nebraska House of Representatives and former county attorney of Garfield county, visited Sherman yesterday and indicated the boy will be defended by him when he faces trial at a special session of district court early next month.

Sherman now is in the state penitentiary, where he was placed to avoid a mob that threatened to lynch him for his allegedly confessed murders. Sherman is said to have killed Roger Pochon, Pochon's wife, and Mrs. Eugene Pochon, the aged mother of Pochon.

White asked Sherman yesterday why he committed the murderers.

"I don't know," said Sherman and he would not discuss the murders further.

White, it developed, has known young Sherman and the Sherman family for a number of years. "I first saw him in his mother's arms," said White, and later he revealed he probably will depend upon a defense of hereditary insanity to save the boy.

"Sherman's mother, who now is dead, used to be subject to spells of mental aberration," said White. The youngsters father now is 78 years old.

Mandell Retains Championship

"One hundred thirty-five and a half," said Jim Farley, N. Y. boxing commissioner (center), as Lightweight Champion Sammy Mandell weighed in for his bout with Challenger Jimmy McLarnin. That's half a pound over weight. But McLarnin (right) agreed for Mandell to take 15 minutes to work off the excess half pound, and he succeeded, thereby saving himself a $2,500 forfeit. McLarnin tipped the beam at 134½. The fight was postponed three times because of bad weather nad was held last night, Mandell winning easily.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD.
By United Press

Yesterday's Hero: Bob Meusel, Yankee's left fielder, whose home run with two teammates on base in the sixth inning of the second game saved the world champions from a double defeat at the hands of the Boston Red Sox. Home runs by Todt and Regan with two Red Sox on base each time gave Boston an 8 to 4 victory in the first game while Meusel's wallop won the second game for the Yanks, 3 to 2.

The Philadelphia Athletics took a doubleheader from the Washington Senators, gaining a full game on the Yankees. Quinn's single in the thirteenth won the first game, 4 to 3, while Dykes' homer and French's double gave the A's victory in the second game, 2 to 1. Tris Speaker and Bing Miller, Philadelphia outfielders, were injured in a collision in the first game. Both had to retire from the game, Tris Speaker with a possible fractured arm.

In a battle of home runs, the St. Louis Cardinals outslugged the Chicago Cubs, four homers to two, and won, 8 to 7. Jim Bottomley hit two homers for the Cards with a man on each time while Hack Wilson duplicated the feat for the Cubs. Roettger and Harper also hit for the circuit.

The Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates divided a doubleheader, the Reds winning the opener, 4 to 3, and the Pirates taking the afterpiece, 6 to 3.

No other games were played.

Mandell Keeps Title With Easy Victory

McLarnin Gives Lightweight Champ Little Trouble—Rickard Lucky If He Breaks Even.

New York, May 22.—Those who have been complaining of Sammy Mandell's stewardship since he won the lightweight championship two summers ago from Rocky Kansas must continue to seek for a challenger to supplant the black-haired little sheik from Rockyford, Illinois.

Jimmy McLarnin, born in Belfast and bred on the west coast, failed to even so much as ruffle Mandell's stay-combed hair in their 15-round championship bout before 30,000 spectators at the Polo Grounds last night.

Mandell outpointed his challenger from start to finish, closed McLarlin's left eye and made a monkey of the lad from Vancouver at in-fighting. Entering the ring at 7 to 5 favorite in the fight, which had been thrice postponed, Sammy proved himself in every way a worthy champion and justified the betting odds by winning all the way.

The champion won eleven of the fifteen rounds, two went to McLarnin on sheer aggressiveness and two were even. A fast left hand, which somehow always managed to beat Jimmy to the punch, was the champion's most effective blow.

McLarnin proved vastly over-rated. If he is the best of the lightweights who seek Mandell's crown, the title is safely Sammy's for some time to come.

The coast boy was awkward in his persistency. He would bore in at Mandell round after round, only to be tied up in the clinches and out-generaled.

It was a fast fight, with action all the way, and not one of the throng at the Polo Grounds raised a voice in protest at any time.

The gate was rather a disappointment to Tex Rickard, as the gross receipts were estimated at $137,000 and Mandell had received a guarantee of nearly half that sum to defend his title here. Rickard may have broken even on the show, but the chances are that he lost money.

Boxing Bout Ends in Double Knockout

New Bedford, Mass., May 22.—A boxing bout ended in a double knockout here last night.

During a clinch, Al Walker, New York light heavyweight, and Jimmy Mendes of New Bedford fell out of the ring, landing on their heads. Neither was able to return to the ring before the count of 10, and the bout was declared "no contest."
